A NEW SEASON is marked by the introduction of color to our catalog for 1966/67. We hope this adds a lively dimension to the spectrum of Trailwise equipment, particularly for our customers who aren't able to visit us in Berkeley. We have tried throughout to give an earnest and accurate accounting of even the smallest items, and feel that color is an important part of the full description.

THE SEARCH CONTINUES at Trailwise for the best in equipment, both from our factory and from foreign and domestic sources. The past season has found our staff members in the desert, sub-arctic and High Sierra testing new products, and, incidentally, confirming that our present line is in the forefront of lightweight design. Our General Manager, Allen Steck, is leading a Sierra Club rock-climbing trip to the Dolomites of Italy this summer; while in Europe he will seek out new sources and new products from this creatively burgeoning marketplace.

BUYER'S GUIDE SECTIONS have been included in this catalog, conveying a few of the solid facts which are necessary to the wise choice of a lightweight outfit.

FIFTEEN YEARS at our present location on University Avenue in Berkeley finally just wore our old store through at the seams; accordingly, we began remodeling last Fall. Our gleaming new quarters await your inspection, should your summer travels bring you close to Berkeley.

PACK FRAMES A BUYERS GUIDE

• A PACKFRAME IS FREEDOM IN THE MOUNTAINS

We think that the contoured aluminum packframe has been responsible for the recent healthy upswing in family back-packing. Immense new areas of wild country are now opened up to the backpacker, who, with an eminently manageable and compact load, lopes along or dallies at will, covering miles of ground with the serene enjoyment of being entirely self-sufficient. Aching muscles and a burro-like resignation to a swaying and ungainly load become a thing of the late and unlamented past.

• HOW PACKFRAMES WORK

First, consider that the human frame did not evolve for the purpose of carrying heavy loads on the back! Quite strong from the hips on down, the human body is a frail compromise with evolution above the hips. The result is a heritage of back trouble unknown to the lower animals, who carry their weight swung from two points, at either end of the spinal column. In walking erect, we have imposed the full weight of our bodies on one point—the base of the spine. A heavy load carried directly on the back puts a great strain on the spinal column, causing the weight to be taken up by the shoulder, neck, and back muscles, a source of great fatigue. Trailwise packframes have been designed around the principle that the greater part of the load must be borne by the hips. The rigid contour frame with waist belt is simply a mechanical way of transferring the weight from high on the back (the best point of balance) to the hips—where the inherent strength of the hips and legs is best able to bear the load.

The waist belt must be considered an essential part of any packframe. Trailwise waist belts are unique in that they wrap entirely around the waist—not just around the front—providing continuous support at every point, and, incidentally, eliminating undue pressure on the front of the hips, normally a cause of some chafing and soreness.

• WHO NEEDS A FRAME?

Chances are that you do if the equipment you normally pack for a weekend weighs more than about 25 lbs. While the frame restricts the free-and-easy swing of the shoulders and hips just a bit, it rapidly compensates in comfort and lessened fatigue. The use of the very best in down bags, aluminum cookware, etc. will keep the load well below 25 lbs.; however, the backpacker with side interests, such as fishing, photography, or climbing may find that his specialized gear quickly exceeds the limits that can be comfortably carried in a simple rucksack.

• WHAT ABOUT COST?

The 3" wide shoulder straps are padded with  $\frac{3}{8}$ " ensolite in a nylon casing. They are fully adjustable. The full mesh nylon back support conforms for smooth distribution of pressure, yet has the advantage of being well ventilated. Each frame comes with an adjustable heavy-duty nylon waist strap. # TRAILWISE DOWN BAGS

*For your protection the State of California has an unusually strict code for down filling. When you receive a bag with the California Certification label attached you may be sure that the down filling materials meet the State code. In Trailwise bags we make every effort to supply fillings well above the State required minimums.

TRAILWISE SLIMLINE BAG

Form fitting bag designed for the greatest economy of weight and space. Especially recommended for the lean mountaineer, hiker or back packer who must keep weight and bulk to a minimum. The basic design elements consist of two concentric tapered shells (Differential cut), connected to each other by Chevron Baffles of nylon-mesh. The differential cut gives the highest possible loft of the Grade AA White Goose Down filling and the Chevron Baffles stabilizes the down more effectively than any other type of baffling yet developed. The Slimline Bags have adjustable drawcord hood and are made of Tenaya Cloth in color choice of Red, Blue, and Orange. This bag will keep the average person warm for normal summer temperatures in the high mountains. Use of a cover and thermal underwear will increase efficiency so that the bag can be used for winter trips in comfort.

ZIPPERS. A 72" nylon side zipper can be ordered for the Slimline, whereby it is made adaptable to a wider variety of conditions, but adds 2½ oz. of weight to the bag. Zippers can be installed on the Right side only (viewpoint of occupant).

Model 901. Will fit persons up to 6' tall, weighing about 175 lbs. or less. Circumference at shoulders is 54"; at foot, 36". Filling is Grade AA White Goose Down. Packs into waterproof carrying case 7" x 18".

Model 901: 24 oz. fill. Wt. 2 lb. 6 oz. $190.....$64.50

Model 941: Designed for persons up to 6' 3", weighing about 190 lbs. or less. Circumference at shoulders is 58"; at foot, 36". Packs into a waterproof case 7" x 18". Filling is Grade AA White Goose Down.

Model 941: 26 oz. fill. Wt. 2 lb. 9 oz. $194.....$69.50

THE HAZARDS OF TEMPERATURE RATING—AN OBJECTIVE REPORT. Trailwise sleeping bags are not given an exact temperature "rating" in this catalog. We hope that you will weigh the factors given below in considering the purchase of a Trailwise bag. What is loosely called the "warmth" of a sleeping bag depends upon two things:

(1) The rate at which the body produces heat to warm the inside of the bag. This is the slippery one to figure, for these reasons:

(a) The Metabolic Rate, different for each person, determines one's heat-producing capacity. Thus, in identical bags, one camper may feel cold, another will slumber comfortably.

(b) Variation in tolerance to cold. Many experienced outdoorsmen can sleep well, even prefer to sleep, when not quite "warm as toast." One's wife may not agree with this spartan way of thinking!

(c) An exhausting trek into a campsite followed by insufficient nourishment at dinner reduces the ability of the body to produce heat. Conversely, a meal rich in carbohydrates and fats stimulates the heat-producing of the body, conducive to warm sleep.

(2) The rate at which heat is dispelled through the insulating layers to the outside. The thickness of the bag is most important. Wind velocity and humidity changes during the night will also affect the insulating ability of a sleeping bag, causing the sleeper to become warmer or colder. A cover or a tent will increase the comfort range of a bag at least 10°F; A double-walled tent may be 20°F. warmer inside than out. If you carry a tent, then, you will be comfortable in a lighter bag.

A DISSERTATION ON DOWN. The best grade of down currently available is Goose Down from Canada and Northern Europe, where climatic conditions, food, and method of plucking from mature birds combine to yield down of superior quality. Goose down is still the only material having the optimum characteristics of loft (ability to occupy space, and trap air within), lightness, and compressibility that are essential to the manufacture of lightweight, efficient sleeping bags. Contrary to widespread opinion, Grey Goose Down is not particularly less "lofty" than White Goose Down. Both kinds are processed from the same stocks; the resultant difference in loft is, at the most, about 10%. TRAILWISE uses two grades of down: Grade AA White, as used in the Chevron and Slimline Bags, Grade A Grey, as used in all other down bags and down-filled clothing.

WHY CHEVRON BAFFLING. We all agree that down is the best ingredient to use for warmth and efficiency in sleeping bags. For years it has been our pleasure at TRAILWISE to fill our sleeping bags and garments with this fine product of nature. Our admiration for this marvelous fill, however, has not made us blind to the fact that down is a wayward and slippery rascal as well. To pin down in place so that it does its work effectively at every point depends entirely on the baffling system: The more friction that a baffle can offer to impede the shifting of down, the more effective it will be; hence the Chevron Baffle. Simply stated, the Chevron Baffle insures that the down can only shift a minimal distance along the tube before it encounters another baffle across its path. The baffling material is nylon netting which offers maximum sliding friction to retard movement of the down.

THE DIFFERENTIAL CUT

The efficiency of bag is measured by its loft or fluffiness. The differentially cut bag allows the down to loft properly because the inner shell cannot press against the outer shell around the entire periphery. This is important for close fitting bags and this feature is found in the Trailwise Chevron, Trailwise Norrand, and Slim Line Bags.

TRAILWISE CHEVRON BAG

This bag has proven itself a winner in the frozen regions of Alaska as well as in the higher reaches of the loftiest mountains of the world. Nothing was spared in its design, construction or use of materials to make it the paragon of all bags. The shell is of Blue Tenaya Cloth; this material is light, downproof, water repellent and extremely durable. It has a luxurious feel and will give years of service. The Differential Cut, which allows the 2½ lbs. of Grade AA Premium White Goose Down filling to loft a full 8½", provides for maximum thermal efficiency. (See explanation of Differential cut). The 4½" deep Chevron Baffle, made of strong nylon mesh, is slanted a full half tube width. The Chevron Baffle, which in itself is the most effective method yet developed for the stabilization of down, is even more effective when sewn in on a slant. Efficient contour design whereby widest part of bag is at shoulders and elbows. Roomy flared foot section. 30" Nylon side zipper sealed from drafts with 3" wide down-filled draft flap. Draw cord hood closure. One size for persons up to 6'2". French Blue Color. Waterproof carrying bag included. Wt. 4 lbs. 4 oz. $104.....$107.50
With full-length 72" nylon zipper. (Allow two weeks for delivery.) $104/72.....$109.50

DOUBLE MUMMY

This bag will accommodate two persons comfortably. It has certain advantages over two singles zippered together as a double because of less weight, less bulk, lower price but superior individual thermal control. Yet by itself this Double Mummy Bag is not too large or heavy to be used as a solo bag on occasion. The covering is made of Ripstop Nylon for lightness and durability.

The Chevron baffles are made of nylon netting. The bag tapers from 49" at shoulders to 35" near bottom and then flares out to a roomy foot section. Each side has a 72" zipper well protected against drafts by 2" down filled draft flap. Two independent draw cord hoods offer excellent individual thermal control. The center section at top may be sealed against drafts entering at shoulders by use of the Velcro Closure Tape and snap fasteners. This bag should keep persons possessed of good circulation warm down to 10°F. Filled with 4 lbs. Grade A Gray Goose Down. Will fit persons up to 6'2" tall. Total wgt. 6 lbs. 8 oz. Color: Blue. $108.....$128.50

We feel this bag is eminently suited to the Summer backpacker, climber, cyclist and for Winter use in lodge or hut. This bag is fully baffled. ### MOUNT LOGAN, 1965

A happy union of the makers and users of Trailwise equipment occurred last year, when the South Ridge of Mt. Logan (19,850') fell to a party of six California mountaineers, among whom was a member of the Ski Hut staff, Allen Steck. The five-week push to the summit was facilitated by the use of much Trailwise equipment as the McKinley Tent (facing page); the Logan Jacket (page 31) developed especially for this expedition; and the Trailwise Contoured Packframe.

The photo (right) shows a McKinley Tent and an as-yet-unnamed bivouac tent pitched on a site hewn into a 60° ice wall, where they remained several days while the climbers continued to scout the route ahead. Shortly after breaking camp, the whole cornice against which the tents were pitched broke away from the wall and fell to the glacier below.

Such arrangement allows maximum ventilation when desired and also two tents can be pitched back to back allowing access from one to the other. Floor measures 8' x 7'; tent 7' wide at doors, and height of tent is 7'. Comes with sectional aluminum pole, base plate, peak vents and waterproof, sewn-in floor. #### TRAILWISE TWO MAN MOUNTAIN TENT

Lightweight two-man tent for all seasons, made of durable Alpine Nylon. Supported at each end by angle poles set in nylon sleeves, this is an exceptionally rigid tent under storm conditions. Floor is 50" x 80"; peak is 40" high. Front double zipper closure is insect and weather proof and offers effective ventilation control. Vent with netting on rear panel; mosquito netting door behind front entrance. Fly-sheet provided is necessary in prolonged rainy weather; without fly, rain will eventually "spray" through all lightweight fabrics, nylon or cotton, in spite of water repellent treatment. Tent fabric is orange or green, as available. Fly sheet and sewn-in floor are tan Nylport, a waterproof nylon fabric that will not crack or peel—ever. Tent comes with carrying case, fly-sheet, sectional angle poles of aluminum alloy, elastic shock rings, eight all-purpose pegs. Weight 7¼ lb. T103.....$97.50

LOGAN JACKET

Designed as an intermediate-weight, all-around down jacket for mountaineering, skiing and camping: We found this jacket to be just as useful at 19,000 feet on Mt. Logan as it is around Yosemite Valley, or on a Sierra ski-tour. The Logan Jacket has the warmth of several sweaters, with less weight—and easily carried in a corner of your pack until needed. Filled with grey goose down, shell of tough Ripstop Nylon, a 3½" high down collar, and elastic knit cuffs. This is the only jacket of its kind that solves the controversial question: Zipper vs. Snaps? The Logan Model has both heavy-duty snaps and a full nylon zipper with a 2" overlap. Colors: Red or Blue; weight 21 oz. Sizes Small, Med. or Large. A111.....$26.50

TRAILWISE DOWN PARKA

Designed by Trailwise for those who need the utmost in protection against bitter cold at high altitude, this "Big Downy" is also useful often by mountaineers for wear around camp during cold weather, or in conjunction with a Footsack for sleeping. Built on the overlapping quilt principle, this parka has no cold seams. The 26" nylon zipper is snag-free and thickly insulated by a full-length down-filled draft flap. The parka has elastic-knit cuffs and a stand-up collar that lies snug around the neck with a generous overlap in front. Hood is cut full enough to be worn over other headgear; has drawstring and Velcro closure at neck. Parka is fully lofted with 16 oz. grey goose down, with lightweight nylon shell and lining. Ideal for wear under a parka, in your sleeping bag, or slipped over other garments while resting on the trail and in camp. Another feature is a knit elastic collar that is 3½" high. Collar can be worn up or folded down to suit conditions. Elastic at waist. Shell material is Ripstop Nylon, which is sturdy and windproof. Sizes: Small, Medium and Large. Small and medium will fit most women. Color: Royal Blue. Wgt. 12 oz. A112.....$17.95

Four large zipper pockets—two beneath chest flaps (12" x 8") and two on the skirt (9" x 12"). Fabric is Element Cloth; a tough weather resistant material. Due to its unique weave, the fabric is highly water resistant because the alternately twisted threads swell and interlock when exposed to moisture. We recommend this parka to the year-round sportsman who needs a light jacket for protection against wind and weather. Colors: Tan, Medium Blue. Sizes: S, M, L, XL. Avg. wgt. 1 lb. 8 oz. A108 .....$24.00

HOW TO CHOOSE A GOOD CAMPSTOVE.

The lighter weight stoves are not quite as efficient as the heavier ones, in general—but the weight saved is usually worth it for lightweight back-packing. For long trips and expeditionary use, the weight of the fuel becomes important. In such cases, a larger stove comes into its own, and cooks faster and more economically. White gas is most popular among campers because it is cheap, easy to burn, and more readily available. Kerosene and Butane are both more efficient than white gas in terms of heat delivered per pound of fuel; but butane is more expensive and less easily obtainable (although it is simpler for the non-technically-minded to use), and kerosene has a lingering odor and must be primed with alcohol to burn. Stoves with pumps are recommended for high altitude (over 12,000').

1 lb. raw sugar (or brown)
2 cups powdered milk
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups melted shortening

350° F. for 1 hour—cut into squares while still warm and soft, then put back in, with door of oven ajar, overnight at very low temp. When thoroughly dry will keep for months. (Bake in low, flat pan.)

1. This recipe tastes strongly of molasses. If you prefer a more neutral taste, substitute more honey for molasses.

TRAILWISE/THE SKI HUT wishes you the best in outdoor experience this summer. We hope you have enjoyed our catalog, and that some of the equipment we make and provide will facilitate your wilderness travels, climbing and boating during 1966 and in the years to come.

We of the Trailwise staff find that our interests coincide with our customers in the matter of preserving the fast-diminishing wilderness that remains to us. We strongly urge you to support Conservation in its many varied forms. Much alike in spirit are those who struggle to save a single roadside tree in the city, and those who fight to preserve large tracts of virgin wilderness for the enjoyment of this and future generations. Listed below are a number of organizations that are attempting to preserve what is best in the American Landscape. We'd like you to stand up and be counted this year among those who are willing to try to save what is left.
